

The background of the image is a close-up of a wall where the red paint is peeling and cracking, revealing a greyish-brown surface underneath. A single, dark, horizontal wire or cable runs across the upper third of the image. The lighting creates strong shadows, emphasizing the texture of the peeling paint.

belonging
by tulya

if sanayi would have a color, that would be belonging

